71. EQUESTRIAN PORTRAIT.

This portrait was for many years known as "The 1st Marquis of Montrose, by Velasquez," and was so described in the Kiveton Catalogue, but it has been held impossible for Velasquez to have met the Marquis; moreover, the splendid costume is unlike him. It has been suggested that it may be the Duke of Buckingham, by Velasquez, who was Court Painter at Madrid when Buckingham accompanied Charles I. there, but there is no mention of such a picture in Stirling's Life of Velasquez—and very few of Velasquez's works left Spain before 1800. The "New British Traveller," by G. A. Walpoole, in description of Kiveton, says "in the ante-chamber "is a painting of the Marquis of Montrose, by "Vandyke, esteemed one of the finest pieces in "England." No record has been found of when and how the picture came to Kiveton.
